IRG Donates 1,000 Pounds of Food to Local Food Banks

Physical and Hand Therapy Establishment Gives Back to the Puget Sound Community

Mill Creek, WA: June 10, 2020 - IRG Physical and Hand Therapy clinics have taken the COVID-19 pandemic head on, and turned their new patient profits into donations to their local communities. For every new patient that came into an IRG clinic during the heat of the crisis, one pound of food was donated to the clinic's local food bank. During the month of May, IRG raised over 1,000 pounds of food that was distributed to food banks throughout the Puget Sound.

"I am so proud of our organization, it has always been our foundation to give back to the communities that we live, do business, and work in," Shannon O'Kelley, President of IRG Physical and Hand Therapy said. Giving back to the community is one of IRG's most important foundational values.

IRG is taking extra precautions to ensure our clinics are sanitized efficiently, and all patients and employees are wearing masks. Patient health and safety is a top priority for IRG. They are following updates regularly from the Center for Disease Control (CDC), the World Health Organization (WHO), and local government agencies regarding any relevant updates and protocols for implementation.
